

Home Beautiful Product of the Year: meet the judges

From left: Judy Dymond, Home Beautiful editor Wendy Moore, Rina Bernabei, Tara Dennis and Jennifer Sanders.

Judy Dymond

Trends forecaster Judy Dymond's passion for good design has her searching the globe for the next big thing, so she was a natural at judging the philosophy behind, and execution of, each product. "It's all about bringing technology and design together," Judy says.

Rina Bernabei

Our local talent had industrial designer and lecturer in design Rina Bernabei suitably impressed. "It's a real tribute to our designers that the Australian designer won because the innovation and materials were better than the foreign entrants."

Tara Dennis

As an interior design expert on Seven Network's Better Homes and Gardens, Tara Dennis's hands-on experience meant she had no qualms about putting the finalists through their paces. Any stand-outs? "I loved the Mokum Winter collection," says Tara.

Jennifer Sanders

Jennifer Sanders, deputy director of Sydney's Powerhouse Museum, is used to scouting for the designers of the future. "I loved seeing the attention to detail and craft," Jennifer says. "You're seeing the designer's hand, not just their eye."

For your consideration: the judges tested, discussed and examined the philosophy behind each product before making their decision.

